

AXIS SEEKS TO ESCAPE SICILY

Meandering Along the Main Stem By WASH FAYETTE

This little yarn will give you an idea of how things have completely changed in the last 35 or 40 years.

A great many of you recall how, in horse and buggy days, it was necessary to hold your horse (and driver almost) while one of the new-fangled "gasoline buggies" was passing on the road.

In those days there was a law requiring drivers of automobiles to stop and assist drivers of horse-drawn vehicles in getting their nags past the noisy, smelly autos.

Well, one day this week, Ernest Moomaw, residing on the Harry Bush farm in Jefferson Township, was driving a team of horses along the road near the Train Kirk residence.

Silas Peterson, colored resident of Paint Township, who has about the only horse and buggy in northern Fayette County, was also driving along the road, and met Ernest and the team.

The horses reared and plunged in a wild effort to run away when they met the horse and buggy, and finally went down into the ditch at the roadside until the horse drawn vehicle passed.

Talk about evolution, revolution, etc., the incident is certainly indicative that there has been a radical change in things during the past 40 years.

Remember when you used to pay 5 and 10 cents for a good home grown cantaloupe?

Well, the home grown ones have now come into the local markets to supplant those from which you have been trying to pick a good one for so long.

By "home grown" I mean from the sandy fields of the Scioto valley in Pickaway and Ross counties.

These home grown cantaloupes, which were formerly known as "musk melons" or "mush melons," are selling at 12½ cents per pound or better, so that they run anywhere from 25 to 90 cents each, which, I presume, may rightly be termed "ceiling" prices.

I ran across Oliver Nelson up street Thursday morning, as he was enroute from his home on the Greenfield Road, some 10 miles south of this city, to Jeffersonville, where he is cashier of the Milledgeville Bank of Jeffersonville.

That unusual name is due to the fact that for many years the Milledgeville Bank was located in Milledgeville, but was moved to Jeffersonville a few years ago, and since that time has more than doubled its assets.

Ol has been a good friend of mine ever since we met years ago, and has always been A-1 in furnishing me with information throughout the years.

I first knew him when he was teaching school in Fayette County. Then as deputy sheriff for four years, and sheriff for two years.

After serving as sheriff for two years he decided that the job of superintendent of schools had more appeal and paid better money, so he proceeded to become county superintendent of schools for eight years. He was also representative for two years and state senator for four years.

In 1928 he became affiliated with the Milledgeville Bank as cashier and has held that post since.

Regardless of the job he has held, I have always found him doing his utmost to render the best service possible.

Born on a farm, Ol still likes the soil, and spends seven months each year on his farm on the Greenfield Road, driving back and forth to his work in Jeffersonville.

MUSSOLINI'S LAST HOME TO BECOME MUSEUM

The Berlin radio reported today the official residence of Mussolini before his downfall—the Palazzo Venezia—is to become a public museum, but that its art objects, which have been removed as a precaution against air raids, will not be restored until the war is over.

POST-WAR JOBS VIEWED AS BIG OHIO PROBLEM

Chairman of Commission
To Plan for Peacetime;

TO HELP BUSINESS FIRST

Private Enterprise Counted
On To Provide Work for Servicemen and Civilians

COLUMBUS, Aug. 12.—(P)—Ohio's postwar program commission must be prepared to help provide jobs for a decade after the war, its chairman, Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, said today.

A survey of the commission showed its members felt plans should be made now to assist in meeting these major problems relating to postwar employment:

Providing jobs both for returning soldiers and civilians switching from war to peacetime employment;

Establishing a program of necessary public works projects, and Aiding business in the switch-over from war to peace production.

"We were not prepared for war but we must be prepared for peace," was the summation of the commission's purpose as expressed by Herbert.

"The first obligation of the commission is to help business to furnish the jobs," Herbert declared, "but the state and every political subdivision should be prepared to start public construction immediately with the war's end to take up the slack while industry is converting from war to peace time production."

The lieutenant governor believes the commission may be able to give suggestions for developing a longtime program that "will even meet the backwash after eight or ten years."

"This reaction may be even worse than that which succeeded the period of prosperity following the first World War and the people may not be in a frame of mind to accept bread lines as they did before."

"This commission may be able to prevent chaos and possibly violence," he declared.

Post-war Reconstruction To Open New Markets

OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press)—Seed from Canadian farms today appeared to be one of the keystones in world reconstruction.

As requests went out for every effort to provide the largest possible supply of all forage crop seeds in the present year, officials said countries now occupied by the enemy would need millions of pounds of seed of all kinds to restore their lands to productivity after liberation.

Nelson Young, seeds administrator, said special concern was felt over alsike clover seed.

Missouri Solons Rebel Against Government Aid

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 12.—(P)—The Republican controlled Missouri House of Representatives—backing a member's shout of "tell the Federal government to take their money and go to hell"—defeated a bill to provide an additional $750,000 to administer the state's $69,000,000 Social Security program.

Republican Gov. Forrest C. Donnell had asked the addition to $4,460,000 already appropriated after federal officials suggested the federal matching dollars would be shut off if the state

COLUMBUS, Aug. 12.—(P)—The military secrecy which has veiled operations of the 37th Division, composed principally of Ohioans, was lifted for the first time last night when it was disclosed elements of the outfit aided in the capture of the Japanese airbase at Munda.

An announcement from a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur revealed that units of the 37th, 25th and 43rd infantry divisions and the marines participated in the Munda battle.

It also was the first word Ohioans had received that parts of the 37th had engaged the enemy in action.

The division commanded by Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler was federalized in the fall of 1940, trained at Camp Shelby, Miss., and learned jungle warfare method in the Louisiana swamps on maneuvers two years ago.

It was after those maneuvers that General Beightler paid the Ohio boys this tribute:

"I'm satisfied that as long as the security of our nation rests in the hands of men like those of the 37th Division, we shall have nothing to fear."

"The thing that struck my attention most strongly was the fact that when the going was tough-

RED WING, Minn., Aug. 12.—(P)—Rep. August Andresen (R., Minn.) said today 20 northwest senators and representatives had accepted his call for a conference on domestic problems by farmers, business and professional men at Minneapolis, Monday and Tuesday.

Detailing objectives of the conference, Andresen said: "Many unnecessary and ill-advised directives from Washington are jeopardizing food production and are also making it very difficult for business men to continue supplying goods for essential civilian needs. The main purpose of the conference will be to give the various individuals and groups an opportunity to tell their problems to a large group of congressmen—on the home ground instead of going to Washington."

DEATH PENALTY PREDICTED FOR MANUFACTURERS OF FAULTY WAR MATERIALS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(P)—Rep. Hobbs (D-Ala.) declared today that any person willfully delivering defective materials to the armed forces is guilty of "treason," and he predicted congress would enact the death penalty for such a crime.

The Alabamian, member of the judiciary committee, said the war and justice departments had approved his bill, which would write the extreme penalty into the sabotage act of the first World War.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 12.—(P)—Germany has cut off Sweden's commercial trade with Italy by refusing to transport Swedish goods on the Reich's railways, an official statement disclosed today.

It came a week after Sweden announced the transport of German troops and war materials over Swedish railways between Germany, Norway and Finland would be discontinued this month.

WAR IN SICILY LIKE THIS

Yanks Show Guts Under Fire But No Atheists In Foxholes

By DON WHITEHEAD
WITH THE AEF AT TROINA.

August 6.—(Delayed)—(P)—My friend, a blue-eyed lad in blood-stained fatigues, slid down the bank on the ridgetop before Troina and talked with us while Germans laid mortar shells around our position. We had been helping evacuate wounded from the battlefield, carrying them on doors and tabletops.

When the shrapnel stopped buzzing around heads began popping up from foxholes and stone shelters in the vineyards where the battalion command post was located. I felt calm and steady after the shelling, but when I lit a cigarette for Jack Belden, of Time and Life magazines, my fingers trembled.

The young soldier, Second Lieutenant Claus Anderson of Kenosha, Wis., must have noticed it. "You know," he said, "it's true there are no atheists in foxholes. I found that out yesterday on the next ridge."

Anderson and Corp. Wayne Palmer of Ladysmith, Wis., were in a gully under machinegun fire trying to dress the wounds of a comrade who had been hit in the side. They carried him into a stone shack nearby while Germans sniped at them.

"There were five wounded men in the place and others in the field nearby," Anderson said. "Palmer never refused to go anywhere. I never saw a man with more guts. He kept bringing wounded men off the field although he'd been nicked by a bullet himself. We used up all our bandages and all the Heine bandages we picked up, too."

"Yeah," said Lieut. Stan Mastyl of Philadelphia. "It was a tough spot. The boys had plenty of guts and what about Kelly? There's a soldier for you. Ralph refused to leave his machinegun post until all the riflemen were out and he had no support himself. He was talking to Corp. Ralph Kelly of Emmetsburg, Maryland."

Mastyl and Palmer were with the wounded in the shack all day while Germans shelled the area and machinegunned anyone who came into the open. They tried to reach one wounded man but were driven back by machinegun fire each time they came out of the shack.

"Nobody's got more guts than a wounded man," Anderson observed, "and as I said, there are no atheists in foxholes. We thought one of the men was dying. We all said a prayer for him."

"There were a couple of Catholics there. They read a prayer from a book. I don't think the wounded man was a Catholic, but nobody cared what his religion was. It didn't matter, did it?" I said no, it didn't matter.

A radio report came in from Captain Robert Tutler, of Wash-

Food Administrator Wants

Chance To Help Make It

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(P)—Food Administrator Marvin Jones has called in a one time associate in Congress, former representative William L. Nelson (D-Mo.), to help rebuild the wartime food program along lines which would, Nelson said, give "the folks back home more to say about what's to be done."

The Missourian, who was one of the Democrats swept out of office by the farm belt uprising at last fall's election, has been named special assistant to Jones. He will serve as the connecting link between the food administrator and local agricultural war boards.

NARROW STRAIT AT MESSINA IS SCENE OF FLIGHT

Germans Put Up Powerful
Defense for Evacuation
Under Bombardment

YANKS CUT BEHIND LINES

Meanwhile, Red Army Drives
To Close Trap on Nazis
Caught at Kharkov

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(By The Associated Press)

German troops were reported today to be abandoning Sicily in a full-fledged evacuation under a tremendous anti-aircraft barrage over the Messina Strait, and U. S. troops in another seaplane vault behind Nazi lines have landed east of Cape Orlando, forcing the enemy back along the north coast.

The Germans were waging a powerful defense across the base of the Messina triangle as their troops withdrew in a flotilla of at least 80 boats crossing the strait night and day, Associated Press correspondent Noland Norgaard reported.

The second daring landing by U. S. Seventh Army troops rammed combat forces ashore before dawn near the cape under cover of American warships that helped in repulsing fierce Nazi counterattacks. Allied planes assisted the attack.

These troops and other American forces fighting eastward made contact and closed a seven-mile gap between them, forcing a German retreat.

This amphibious flank attack followed one three days earlier when Seventh Army units cut in behind San Agata to collapse enemy resistance there.

In Russia, the powerful Red army spearhead within 7½ miles of Kharkov from the northeast, and threw entrapment forces tighter about the German bastion by cutting the Poltava railroad and pinching the escape corridor to the southwest to only 60 miles.

U. S. Flying Fortresses hammered industrial targets in Germany in daylight after Mosquito planes had darted by night against objectives in the Ruhr and Rhineland.

This was the backdrop of continuing Allied successes as the sixth meeting approached between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt. Headed for an unannounced destination, Churchill's train stopped briefly in Toronto this morning.

Cape Orlando is some 40 air miles from Messina on the coastal road in Sicily where the American land advance is slowed by wrecked bridges and strong enemy hill positions. The cape is nine miles east of San Agata.

Warships supporting the landing Tuesday night have turned back serious German counterattacks, headquarters said. Tanks were landed with the Doughboys in the pre-dawn murk.

The landing was made near the mouth of the Naso River and the bridgehead successfully established. The audacious stab threatened German forces with entrapment. Operations continue, headquarters said.

Seven miles west of the cape the Americans have consolidated the area of San Marco D'Alunzio, and in the central sector the seventh army had battled halfway between Cesaro and the key town of Randazzo.

British Eighth Army units on the east coast have seized Prajola and Zafferana Etnea on the slopes of Mt. Etna five miles inland from captured Guardia.

The peril of Kharkov increased hourly. Besides the close stab northeast of the great industrial city, the Soviets captured Vodyanya 40 miles to the west, slicing the Kharkov-Poltava railroad.

The onrush put them within 93 miles of the Dnieper River bend and endangered German forces in the Donets basin area to the

COUNTY DEFENSE COUNCIL SET-UP BEING CHANGED

Changes in Amended State Law Requirements To Be Followed

In order to conform to an act passed by the Ohio General Assembly during its recent session, which amended the State Council of Defense Act, providing for a more complete organization of county and local defense councils, steps were taken this week in Fayette County to reorganize the Fayette County Defense Council.

This move was made at the request of the State Defense Council which is requiring revamping of the organizations in all counties of the state to meet various legal requirements of the amended law. The possibility of state distribution of further funds to the various county defense organizations in the future has necessitated this action, according to state authorities, so that every county organization will be able to qualify in all legal technicalities to receive any funds of other help which the state organization may be able to offer in the future.

The amended law requires that a resolution be passed by the county commissioners setting up a required list of certain county, city, village and township officials as members of the County Defense Council to be approved by the governor and duly registered on the state organization lists. This organization of the county then may add such other individuals as it deems necessary as members of the county council, these also to be approved by the governor.

In accordance with this request the Fayette County board of commissioners met with township officials and others at the Court House Wednesday evening and passed the necessary resolution of compliance. The officials named in the resolution which includes the president of the board of county commissioners, the city manager of Washington C. H., the mayor of each village in the county and one member of each township board of trustees, will meet again next Monday evening, August 16, at the office of the probate judge, at which time other names are to be added to the county council membership. The whole group will then be sent to the state headquarters for approval by the governor. All names approved will then become regular members of the county council and will continue the organization work.

It is regarded as probable that all present active members of the County Defense Council organization will continue their duties as heretofore.

One of the objects of the reorganization move is to obtain more complete county-wide activity in civilian defense efforts.

Only one vacancy today remained in the faculty of Bloomingburg schools, according to Superintendent G. H. Riddle. The teaching post as yet unfilled was that of physical science.

STEALS COAT; SOON ARRESTED

Alabama Negro Picked Up By Police and FBI Is Notified

William Thomas, 24, giant negro from Culman, Alabama, who admits he was released from the Georgia Penitentiary in March, 1942, is being held here after he had stolen a coat from Walter Yager, on Draper Street, last Wednesday night.
Yager saw the man take the coat and reported the theft to the police, who rounded Thomas up in a weed patch near the Eshelman elevator, at 145 A. M. Thursday. Thomas had the coat. Police said Yager declined to file a charge against Thomas.
Learning that he was 24 years of age and apparently in good physical condition, Captain Jess Ellis notified the FBI so that Thomas may be inducted into the military service if he is endeavoring to avoid the draft.
Thomas said he had been placed in class 4-F by reason of his prison record, but could not produce his registration card.
He will be held here until the FBI checks on him in Alabama.

didn't administer the law properly.

Deafening choruses of nays greeted amendments which would have sliced the sum to as low as $340,000. The rejection of the entire appropriation was by a 62 to 60 vote.
Rep. Morris Osburn, Democrat, leading the fight for the fund, said the State Social Security director "told us he can't administer this law unless we give him an additional $750,000."
"The Federal government is always holding a dictator's club over our heads and saying 'if you do this or don't do this we're going to give you a sound spanking and take your candy away,'" Rep. Ralph Erdwin, Republican, replied. "I say we ought to raise the sales tax to three percent (it is now two percent) earmark a penny of that for pensions and tell the Federal government to take their money and go to hell."

For five days they had gone without cigarettes and had eaten when and if their food caught up with them. They'd slept on the ground with only a blanket to cover them and sometimes not even that because they didn't want to carry the extra weight. But they were tough, and they gave the enemy no rest.

One soldier said he had not had his shoes off in 21 days. "I'm afraid if I take them off," he smiled ruefully, "that I'll never get them back on."
The sun was sinking when a formation of twelve B-25s thundered over. They flew to the north, made a wide circle and came back over Troina. Bombs showered from their bellies. Explosions started on the hill below the city and ran up over it, flinging up great columns of gray smoke.

Fifteen minutes later the dive-bombers came lancing out of the sky. Explosions boiled up beneath them as they leveled off and roared toward the south.
The war on land came to a halt as soldiers stopped open-mouthed to watch the destruction of the enemy forces.

"Some even sleep standing up against doors of our offices," comments Executive Secretary Paul W. Brown.

The Flying Fortresses took up the cudgels against Germany after a two-week pause, and the Germans said the main attack was against the inner city of Bonn, 15 miles southeast of Cologne. Berlin reported fierce air battles. Other Rhineland targets also were pounded.

Besides the Mosquito bomber raid last night, the RAF also hit railway targets in France and the lowlands. The Germans replied with a strong attack on England's coast, and said Plymouth and Bournemouth were the principal objectives. Eight persons were killed in one town, London said.
Russia's Stalin was being kept informed of the Allied strategy sessions, with the U. S. and British ambassadors calling on him in Moscow yesterday.
Further to worry Hitler was a London financial news report that the Allies for the first time had a surplus of shipping—a prerequisite for large-scale invasion.

It was announced in Quebec that Roosevelt and Churchill would hold their conference there. The British and Canadian prime ministers met yesterday in a three-hour session with Canada's war cabinet-war committee.

Bern reports said that Germany had halted shipments of all types to Italy—with no explanation given for such a step—and that the Germans had withdrawn some of their artillery and infantry units from the Spanish-French frontier to Bordeaux and Toulouse in southwestern France.
Allied bombers maintained their attacks on the shrinking Messina triangle, and heavy bombers yesterday blasted the railway town of Terni in central Italy, scoring hits in the rail yards and on buildings.

American planes this morning attacked the "northern section" of the Kurile island chain some 1,200 miles northeast of Tokyo, the Japanese radio reported, warning that "further appearances of enemy planes from the north are to be expected."
Five Liberators and three Flying Fortresses staged the new raid from Aleutian bases, Tokyo said, interpreting it as stemming from "positive measures" by the U. S. to "raid our mainland, Japan, from the north."

The broadcast was recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

The discussions which began here Tuesday between Churchill and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada and their chiefs of staff naturally have been directed toward problems and war strategy of interest primarily to their own countries.
Not until Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill sit down at a conference table in Quebec's ancient citadel are the consultations expected to get around to the point of final determinations of the next steps toward victory to be taken by all the English-speaking Allies.

The impending Roosevelt-Churchill conferences which may chart the Allied invasion route into the European continent may be expected to extend over several days as have their five meetings in the past.

The real results of the discussions probably will become known only when new sledgehammer blows are swung at the enemy on the world's battlefronts.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Russia Big Question Mark As United Nations Rushing Toward End of Present War

This column yesterday suggested that one of the problems likely to be discussed in the forthcoming conference between Roosevelt and Churchill is what policy will bring the best post-war cooperation among the United States, Russia and Britain in particular, and all the Allies in general.

This great issue, as I see it, contemplates the likelihood that the Soviet Union will emerge from the war the dominant power in Europe, and perhaps in the Orient as well. That's the way the cards are falling at present.

Now, of course I don't know whether that subject will come before President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill. I just think it's so pressing that it almost inevitably must arise. Next to the winning of the war, there's no question of greater importance today. Vice President Wallace pinned the thing down with startling bluntness last March when he declared:

"Unless the western democracies and Russia come to a satisfactory understanding before the war ends, I very much fear that World War No. 3 will be inevitable."

Mr. Wallace isn't the only one who foresees the possibility of conflicting interests. I found it all the way from England, through the Middle East, to Chungking, during my recent 35,000-mile tour. Now on the eve of the Allied conference we see this idea cropping up significantly in the British press.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's newspaper, the Yorkshire Post, says Premier Joseph Stalin was invited to attend the conference but wasn't able to accept. The paper then warns that the "hour is at hand when it will be imperative for the United Nations to pursue a united course not only with regard to military operations but equally with regard to the politics of Europe."

The London Times—"The Thunderer"—stresses the necessity for unity among the Americans, British and Russians, and gives as a gloomy alternative "a fresh calamity for Europe." Lord Beaverbrook's London Evening Standard expresses regret at Stalin's absence from the Washington Conference. The London Daily Herald says the "Time has come when Britain, America and Russia should be announcing with a single voice their program for the restoration of political liberty to Europe."

What's the exact point of all this anxiety as the war rushes towards its end. We get many expressions of fear but people seem to be terrified of taking a peep into the closet to see what's there.

Actually, there's no dark secret involved, and no reason why it shouldn't be discussed. Better understanding of the problem might help solve the difficulties—if any.

The point is that many astute observers throughout the world believe Russia will, as already stated, dominate Europe and maybe the Far East. Because this would represent a volcanic political upheaval, a lot of countries are afraid of the consequences. They are particularly fearful lest Communism should be thrust upon them.

Russia is the world's largest country in area, occupying one-sixth of the earth's surface and having a population of nearly 200,000,000. It is virtually self-contained, possessing almost every natural resource known to man. It stretches from Europe clear

LIGHT'S DAIRY IMPROVEMENTS ABOUT FINISHED

New Equipment Is Added To Modernize Plant on Leesburg Avenue

Additions of a new loading and unloading dock, receiving shed, refrigerator room, boiler room and washing room are nearly complete at Light's Dairy on Leesburg Avenue. A 100 gallon pasteurizer, a 15 horsepower boiler and a six foot aerator have been added to the equipment already in the dairy.

The front room of the building, formerly used as a pasteurizing room has been partitioned into two rooms. The right room is now used as an office and the through to the Pacific—a two-continent empire.

Already it possesses a titanic strength which potentially would seem to be unlimited. Militarily it's virtually impregnable. Its position as a military power has been established by sensational achievements on the battle field.

All these circumstances combine to make Russia heir to the politico-economic-military domination of central and Eastern Europe which Hitler threw away when he started out to beat the world. The Soviet influence in the Far East long has been great, and the war will enhance it.

So there, in a very sketchy way, are the fundamental facts of the situation. The problem is to work out some agreement among the major powers which will prevent the circumstances from developing adversely.

left as the receiving room proper, where milk is weighed, sampled, filtered and pumped into pasteurizers in the next room through a sanitary pipe.

Now used almost exclusively for pasteurizing, a 20 by 28 foot room formerly housed most of the operations carried on by the dairy. Loading, unloading, receiving, bottle washing equipment and the office were in the room. Besides the two pasteurizers, buttermilk and cottage cheese vats, aerator, separator and bottling apparatus are in the room. The bottler is capable of bottling 100 gallons of milk in quart containers in 18 minutes.

The receiving shed, at the left of the building, has not yet been roofed and racks for empty milk cans are also to be installed at the front end of the shed, which opens into the receiving room proper.

A 3,000-quart refrigerator, measuring 14 by 15 feet and a boiler room 14 by 12 feet have been added to the main building.

The new loading and unloading room at the rear of the building is 42 by 30 feet, although a bottle washing room measuring 12 by 20 feet cuts into the left corner of the space.

All the new additions and partitions are constructed of concrete blocks which will be plastered and painted white as soon as metal lathes to hold up ceiling plaster can be obtained, said Light. An AA3 priority rating for an automatic bottle washer in his hands now indicates future purchase of such machinery.

COUNTY'S TEACHERS TO GET PAMPHLETS

'Those Who Serve' Tells of Education in Wartime

Two pamphlets, "Treasured Verses," and "Those Who Serve," will be distributed to teachers in the county school system, according to W. J. Hilty, county superintendent of schools.

Nearly 100 were sent to Supt. Hilty for distribution. The pamphlet of verses is given annually to the teaching corps although "Those Who Serve" is sent for the first time this year. "Those Who Serve" is a story of the part education plays in the war and the reason why American boys distinguish themselves.

MERCURY DROPS TO 50 DEGREES THURSDAY

With a minimum of 54 degrees Wednesday, the mercury slid on down to 50 degrees at 8 A. M. Thursday.

Wednesday's peak, however, was 89 degrees, but the mercury dropped to 69 by 9 P.M. Wednesday.

A year ago 82 and 58 were recorded as extremes for the day.

Lingering traces of teeth can be found in sea birds in the Arctic and Antarctic regions.

In Pickaway County the sweet corn production in the bottom land has been cut 35 to 40 percent as result of last week's high water.

NEW HEADQUARTERS FOR MOOSE LODGE

First Meeting by Women's Branch To Be Friday

New headquarters for the Moose here is at 143 Main Street in the room formerly occupied by a skating rink. Their former meeting place, the old K. of P. Hall, is now occupied by the Paul H. Hughey American Legion Post.

The new meeting room is being cleaned up and generally put in shape as necessary by the Women's Association, who will hold their regular meeting there next Friday night. Hope was expressed for a large attendance.

Although present plans include no special sessions, a dedication meeting is being planned as soon as the new headquarters are completely refurbished.

NEW TIRES PLACED ON CITY'S PUMPER

Two new Dunlop tires have been placed on the city's pumper, taking the place of a pair of borrowed tires which were used for a few days after both of the rear tires had been blown out while the pumper was standing on the floor at the fire department.

Two additional tires were also obtained by Fire Chief George Hall, and will be placed on the front wheels within the next few days, taking the place of the 12-year old tires on the front of the pumper.

AN ALARMING SITUATION

That some labor leaders are looking to the future, is indicated in the statement of Dell E. Nickerson, executive secretary of the Oregon State Federation convention of that organization that the increase in governmental control of labor, when he told the 41st annual convention of that organizations that the increase in governmental control of labor, as well as business, "is an alarming situation."

"Governmental interference," said Mr. Nickerson, "even when apparently intended to protect the rights or interests of one element of industry, may be the beginning of a program which eventually will establish controls that can destroy voluntary relations between labor and management."

"The National Labor Relations Act, like other previous laws, was hailed as labor's Magna Charta. And like other laws of that nature, notably the Clayton amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, has proved a boomerang."

"Control of affairs has been passing gradually into the hands of the government. Almost imperceptibly, and at times with labor's consent or at labor's request, the rights of labor or employers have been subjected to government orders."

Labor has set a dangerous precedent in its handling of the coal strike situation. It will be a sorry day for the workman if the labor bosses succeed in permanent nationalization of the coal mines.

Mr. Nickerson sounds a timely warning. Labor can deal with an employer. But if labor will look around the world to nations where government has become supreme and where private enterprise has been destroyed, it will see that unions have been destroyed, bargaining power is unheard of, and the workman is a slave.

FINANCIAL JUGGLING

Before congress recessed for the summer, a House sub-committee managed to put some of the social experimenters in a quandary and, at the same time, to lop $43,000,000 off the tax load. The sub-committee was from the Committee on Insular Affairs, headed by C. Jasper Bell, Missouri Democrat. The method was this:

Gov. Rexford Guy Tugwell and his superior, Interior Secretary Ickes, were asking $50,000,000 for public relief works in Puerto Rico during the next two years. Meanwhile, the Bell committee found, the insular government had $60,000,000 of idle funds in Puerto Rican banks.

In this connection it should be borne in mind that Puerto Rico is relieved entirely of any contribution to federal income. The insular government receives and retains all revenue from any source, including income taxes, which are fixed just enough under the federal level so that islanders will not fling to be taxed by Washington. The $60,000,000 was surplus from those revenues which, in the case of a mainland state, would have gone to Mr. Morgenthau's coffers.

Rightly or wrongly the Bell committee believed that Messrs. Tugwell and Ickes intended using their $60,000,000 to finance experiments in state socialization authorized under the Little New Deal program and to force the federal treasury

Flashes of Life

Bass Turns Out To Be a Sucker

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—Walter Champion says he was fishing from a dock and accidentally laid his cigarette across the string holding the several fish he had already caught. The string burned in two and the fish dropped into the water. "To say I was sick is putting it mildly," he added. "But about 30 minutes later I got a terrific strike. One of the bass on the string had struck again and I had succeeded in hooking him. I recovered the string without the loss of a single fish."

REAL CONSERVATION

Americans are learning the meaning of conservation. They are learning from an exacting teacher—war. War has in a matter of months switched this country from a nation of abundance to a nation of scarcity, as far as civilians are concerned. And where there is scarcity, there must be conservation. Automobile owners cannot burn up their cars with speed as they were wont to do a few years ago. Housewives cannot carelessly demolish household appliances, or toss out surplus food.

The new effort to conserve must reach farther than slow driving and eating the last crust of bread. It must reach into one of the most important existing fields of conservation—fire prevention. Several hundred millions of dollars worth of property is destroyed each year by fire. The bulk of that loss is sheer waste, brought about about by indifference and carelessness on the part of individuals. This carelessness can be eradicated by education; by learning that preventing a property-destroying fire is as great a step toward conservation as driving your auto slowly to save tires. Fire prevention authorities have emphasized that: "The development of a safety awareness that will control the daily actions of the individual is necessary if preventable fires and conflagrations are to be reduced to a minimum."

Until our individual conservation efforts are effectively directed toward curbing fire and accident hazards in the home, in the factory, on the farm and every place else where life and property are involved, we have not learned the lesson of conservation.

Washington at a Glance

By OVID MARTIN

(During Jack Stinnett's vacation, his column is being conducted by members of the Washington staff of The Associated Press. Today's column is by Ovid Martin, who specializes in farm news.)

By OVID MARTIN

WASHINGTON — The principle character in one of America's outstanding success stories—the development of the World's leading livestock industry—has retired.

He is Dr. John R. Mohler, who was chief of the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Animal Industry, an agency which stands guard over the health of the nation's multi-billion-dollar dairy, feed cattle, hog, sheep, and poultry industry to assure Americans a stable supply of disease-free meat, dairy and poultry products.

Dr. Mohler retired after serving 46 years in the bureau, of which 26 were spent as its chief.

A man of commanding personality, 63-year old Dr. Mohler was able to obtain funds from Congress for scientific research programs where secretaries of agriculture often failed. His clipped mustache and restrained goatee were distinguishing personal characteristics. Perhaps his most outstanding achievement was the eradication of bovine tuberculosis, which threatened the milk supply several years ago. This country is also one of the few great nations of the world free of the terrible livestock scourge, foot and mouth disease.

Dr. Mohler sponsored the improvement of domestic animals by research in genetics and the application of scientific knowledge to practical stock breeding. Through his encouragement, the government obtained breeding stock from abroad. He sponsored also an effective nation-wide plan of poultry improvement, involving breeding and disease control.

A lover of horses, he directed the improvement of Morgan horses at an Agriculture Department farm in Vermont. Many fine specimens, some of which have been used in Army horse breeding, have resulted from this project.

In commenting on Dr. Mohler's retirement, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said he had "helped the Department of Agriculture perform a great service for the people of the United States—a service from which all of us have received many benefits."

Dr. Mohler was a native of Philadelphia. He entered government service as a veterinarian inspector shortly after finishing his college education in 1897.

Dr. Gibbs Holds a Food Parley

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

"I MET a fellow at a party the other day who certainly made some positive statements," said my old friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs, when he drifted into my office one afternoon.

"Yes, he unquestionably had a firm grasp on the situation. He talked in an even tone of great emphasis just as if we had been a regiment under his command and he was telling us where we got off. I can't remember ever to have met a man to whom I took such an instant and deep-seated dislike.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

"It appears he was full of eggs—that was his subject, eggs. He had just retired from the life insurance business and had taken up raising chickens. Last year was his first year at it—he had raised 3,000. But was he an expert—boy!

Egg Farmer Gives Opinion

"He said the egg outlook is very serious. The egg market is getting depleted and there are no eggs going into storage or else we are now using storage eggs—I forget which—and storage eggs are what the American people eat all winter and this winter there aren't going to be any storage eggs and we are going to be out of luck on eggs."

"Then he went on to draw a picture of the entire food supply and the picture looked like one of Dore's illustrations for Dante's 'Inferno.' According to this fellow we are in for a bad time, and he seemed to be getting quite a lot of personal satisfaction out of

"Didn't it worry you?" I asked. "Well—no—it didn't as much as it ought, I guess. You see, there's one thing this fellow hadn't seemed to have taken into his calculations. Which is that next year is an election year. As you know, I am neither a violent foe or friend of the New Deal. But there is one thing that's got to be said for them—they are awful nice about getting out plenty of votes for their favorite candidates."

Doctor Gibbs' Ideas

"It wouldn't appear likely that a starving electorate would turn out in great numbers at the polls and vote for the people who were in charge of starving them, would it? No, I kind of believe things will be rigged so that the United States will get enough food, especially next year."

"Though there is one bunch who might have to do a little extra sacrificing next year if our food supply is short."

"Who is that?" I asked. Dr. Gibbs bent to my ear and whispered, spelling it out. "The E-N-G-L-I-S-H."

"Also come here," and he whispered again, "the R-O-O-S-H-I-A-N-S. And the C-H-I-N-E-S-E. And the S-P-A-N-I-S-H."

"Besides that, maybe our little brothers, the Arabs and nomads. 'This fellow wound up by smiling a very self-satisfied smile and saying, 'I know one person who ain't going to be without eggs next year.'"

"I said, 'I know several, unless you've got a machine gun—your neighbors. And I will lead the attacking party.'"

CHAPTER THIRTY

AFTERWARD, when Eva had gone and Karen was on her way to her committee meeting, she told herself that that fantastic interview simply could not have happened. Such things did not happen in life, only in movies. But it had happened to Karen, so that now she must try to accept this, too. Parts of it, anyway; for instance, the proof that she had asked Eva for when the younger girl had claimed that Paul did not know what he wanted and that, if given a chance, she could have made him realize it was she he loved, not Karen.

Well, Karen told herself, she had asked for the proof, so that much she would have to accept. Paul had held Eva in his arms, he had kissed her; he had told her if it were not for Karen he knew he could not have cared for her. Those were facts. Eva had not made them up or added dramatics. Of this much Karen could be sure.

She had told Eva that she could have her chance. She had told her that the wedding had been postponed until spring, but had not told Eva that this postponement had been at Paul's suggestion. Taken as it was, it had satisfied the other girl; she seemed to think that spring would give her long enough for the chance she had asked for, or maybe she believed it would be long enough for Paul to find out whom he really wanted.

That part, however, Karen would not accept. She knew that Paul loved her, even in the face of such startling evidence and proof against it. There would be some explanation for what had happened between him and Eva. The least Karen could do was to allow Paul the benefit of that doubt. What hurt was that Paul had not been the one to tell her. She would have tried to understand, even if he had admitted that now there was some doubt in his mind; she would have been willing to have postponed their wedding for that reason. That Paul should give her others, in place of the truth, was what mattered. Unless there was truth between them, nothing else counted.

All through the committee meeting, talking, smiling, putting on her usual "front," Karen's mind was troubled with her personal problems once more. These were bigger than that slight misunderstanding she and Paul had had over Buffy. She had told herself since Paul's way had worked out that she probably had made too high a hill out of that, telling herself, too, that could it have been put off a few days longer it need never have happened, for with that declaration of war all private planes had been grounded for a while, making the ride Paul had given Buffy indeed an ironic coincidence, with Fate at the wheel.

She told herself that now she must not make another mountain out of this bigger issue. It, too, would work out some way, no doubt for the best. Until she understood it thoroughly, it would be disloyal to Paul, to all that still remained between them, for her to jump to wrong conclusions. Why, she herself had been kissed by someone else soon after she had become engaged to Paul! She had let her thoughts and dreams turn toward that other man, Martin Halliday, more often than she had wanted, or than they should in fairness to the man whose ring she wore. Her conscience had bothered her, yet she had not confessed to Paul, although she blamed him for not telling her about Eva.

What she would have liked to do was to go straight to Paul now with everything. That would be the best way, the surest and quickest, to get it all straightened out. But she had promised Eva she would not tell Paul about the other girl's visit. That had been a mistake. Driving slowly homeward again, Karen saw that much clearly. She had given that promise out of her own hurt pride and to save the other girl's pride as well. Just as she had told Eva about the postponement of the wedding, not because Karen thought that would give the younger girl her chance to win Paul away, but to give herself and Paul time to right everything again.

It was ironic, too, she laughed at her own expense, to remember that she had told Paul the night of the Festival that if Eva or any other girl could win him from her, the other girl would be welcome to him. That still held true. She would not want to hold Paul—hang on to him, Eva had called it, if he wanted someone else, although that was what Karen simply could not believe, in spite of any proof to the contrary. She must go on believing that, believing that everything remained the same between herself and Paul, just as it was the same, although they would not be married now until spring, as it had been before.

"Hold on there, driver. Are you trying to run down a poor pedestrian?" Karen was jerked back into the present by being hailed with those words from a man she had come too close to hitting as she rounded the curve following the lake and leading onto the bridge. And again Fate must have had a hand, for the man was Marty.

He had jumped nimbly back onto the narrow sidewalk. Now he carefully placed his fishing rod against the bridge railing as he sauntered over to where Karen had pulled up to "stop."

"Don't you know you aren't supposed to fish off the bridge?" Karen pointed to the "NO FISHING" sign at the entrance. It seemed she always began her conversations with Marty in some such reproving manner. Just as he usually began his by yelling at her and calling her names.

"I wasn't fishing off it, just next to it." His grin showed he no longer took offense at any reproach she had to offer. "Don't you know you must keep your mind on your work, chauffeur? I'll admit I saw you coming, but I also saw that you didn't see poor little me."

"So you thought you'd say 'boo' again and make me have heart failure. Some day, mister, I'll faint at your feet. Then maybe you'll be sorry."

"I thought it was the only way to make you stop," Marty explained. "When you do pull that fainting spell I hope I happen to be the lucky guy around to catch you. Since there's not a 'No Parking' sign on this end of the bridge, could this guy climb in and rest his weary dogs a minute? I've been on them several hours, trying to hook my supper."

Karen opened the other door with a welcoming flourish. She would like to talk with Martin awhile. It always cheered her up; it might even help a bit somehow. "Any luck?" she asked.

He yawned and stretched his long legs before answering. "A few bites and nibbles. Not even anything little enough to have to toss back in. That reminds me I want to take Buffy fishing some day. Did he tell you? How is that young man? And how are you, Mrs. Wyatt?"

"I am not Mrs. Wyatt—yet." Karen felt that hot color stain her cheeks—damn Marty, anyway! But he could not know, in calling her this name, that he had touched a raw spot.

"It won't be long, according to the society editor." He meant he, too, had read the date set for her wedding in last Sunday's paper. Naturally he could not know, even with his powers of clairvoyance, that this same date had been postponed.

Karen thought it best to let him know without any delay. "That was a mistake. I mean it is now. Now that we are in this war." She had wondered how Martin had reacted to that; she would have a chance to ask him. "We have decided—Paul and I—to put it off until spring. Our wedding, I mean." She wished she had not gotten quite so mixed up, saying this. It made it sound as though it had more in back of it than it had, that postponement. Thanks to Eva, it did now!

Marty pursed his lips as if he would give a long whistle, but if he had meant to, he did not. Instead, he said, "He who hesitates is lost. That perfect knight of yours should remember that. I should think, were I in his shoes, that war would hurry matters. The marriage barometer zooms during wartime. License bureaus are packed, the birth rate rises . . ."

"I wanted to talk to you about the war," Karen interrupted.

"Go ahead and talk," Marty said. "I'll listen, Madam Commentator."

Two Guests Are Included at Dinner-Bridge

Mrs. Willard Perrill was a very charming hostess, Wednesday evening, when she entertained with a lovely dinner party and evening of bridge. Two guests, Mrs. Harry Fox of West Newton, Mass., and Mrs. Victor Lumborg of Shreveport, La., were included in the evening's pleasures, along with the regular members of the fortnightly bridge club.

For the serving of the most tempting and appetizing dinner, the guests were seated in the attractive dining room at the dining table, which was centered with a lovely arrangement of garden zinnias from Mrs. Perrill's flower garden, arranged in a water garden.

After the delightful dinner hour, Mrs. Perrill invited her guests to the living room where three tables were placed for the playing of bridge and the remainder of the evening progressed gaily with the game of pivot bridge greatly enjoyed.

FEARS ARE REVIVED FOR BOOTLEGGING

Whiskey Shortage Antidote Seen in Sugar Control

DENVER, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Take sugar off the rationing list, add to it the current whiskey shortage, mix in America's apparently ever-mounting thirst, and you've got a recipe for bootlegging that may outstrip that of prohibition days. That's the opinion of the Alcohol Tax Unit of the Treasury Department in Denver, from District Supervisor A. V. Anderson on down.

Right now, unlawful distilling is on a small scale, said J. L. White, investigator, and he wants the public's sugar supply somewhat controlled so bootleggers can't get a lot of it for their mash.

DICK BARGER TRANSFERRED TO U. S. FORCES

Enlisted With the Royal Canadian Air Force
Two Years Ago

Sergeant Richard L. Barger, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Barger of 602 West Elm Street, this city, was recently transferred from the Royal Canadian Air Force to the U. S. Army Eighth Air Force, and has made many flights on bombing expeditions over Germany and France.

During some of these flights he has had close calls when the plane in which he was flying was struck by shell fragments or machine gun bullets.

He has been overseas, stationed in England, for more than 14 months, and enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force more than two years ago. He is a gunner.

Prior to his enlistment in the RCAF, Barger was a student at Washington High School.

At the time of his transfer, Barger had made ten operational flights over enemy held Europe. His plane dropped most of its lethal cargoes over the Rhur Valley, and he has seen Paris, but the last time he saw Paris, it was not when she was a bit gay, but a sketchy view snatched as he fought off attacking Nazi fighters, so that his pilot could make a smooth bomb run. He says "I didn't have much time to look, but I can say, the last time I saw Paris".

In his pocket, he carries a piece of flak that was once a white hot piece of sudden death. This piece of flak tore through the wing and lodged in the oil tank. He said: "Boy am I glad that tank was between me and that lethal dose. This thing might have hurt somebody."

On a raid over Essen, Barger's flight encountered heavy flak. The flak smashed through one of their engines and it was put out of commission. The pilot was forced to limp his way home with a crippled plane after dropping its bombs on the city "It was nothing serious," Barger says, "we just flew home on three engines instead of four, we lost the formation, but we got back all right."

WANT PULPWOOD
CHILLICOTHE — The Ross County Pulpwood Victory Committee has been organized to help relieve the pulpwood shortage.

These top-flight Hollywood players are thrown into the maelstrom of China's war against the ruthless Jap invaders in Paramount's spectacular dramatization of the Sino-Japanese battle front, "China." The picture opens Sunday at the State Theatre. Shown are Alan Ladd, Loretta Young and William Bendix. The film, one of the most stirring and vivid war dramas to come out of Hollywood, depicts an incident in the holocaust that has engulfed the entire Orient, the fight of an American girl university teacher to get her charges to safety ahead of the ruthless advance of the Japanese. How Ladd, an oil man, and his assistant, played by Bendix, helped in that thrilling adventure is heroically told in "China." John Farrow, who gave us the smashing epic, "Wake Island," was the director.

LABOR SHORTAGE SLOWS WORK IN BLOOMINGBURG

Plans for Blackout Also Are Getting Consideration But Nothing Definite Yet

Lack of sufficient labor to make needed repairs on Bloomington streets today was the only serious obstacle in the way of the patching, according to Harvey Andrews, president of the village council.

A permit for 4,000 gallons of tar has been in the hands of the council for about two weeks, after the application for the tar was made six weeks ago. The council should have no trouble getting the tar, Andrews said, and they anticipate no difficulty in obtaining the necessary crushed stone to make the repairs. If labor can be found, the repairs will be made next month.

A discussion of the surprise state-wide and zone blackouts soon to be held was led by Mayor C. F. Hartley at the last council meeting. No definite action was taken and the discussion was suspended until the next meeting of the council next Monday night pending announcements to be made by the Civilian Defense Council here.

The acute labor shortage which has prevented weed mowing and general street cleaning and threatens to affect the street repaving in Bloomington will also be further discussed at the Monday meeting in an attempt to cope with the problem.

ZERO LOCKERS HERE CAN'T MEET DEMAND

All Are Filled and Long List Of Applicants on File

Every locker available for use is filled at the Zero Locker Company and a long list of those waiting for locker space will probably be disappointed said William Lucas, proprietor of the locker company today.

The advent of rationing caused the lockers to be snapped up by those who had meats and other produce which could be frozen and the demand for such storage space exceeds the supply, he pointed out.

Some of the lockers are not in good working order, which further reduces the space available for storage, Lucas said. These lockers cannot be repaired at present due to shortages of material and labor.

BLOOD DONORS NEEDED!

Thousands of blood donors are needed each week for the Army and Navy. Call Red Cross Blood Donor Service. (Insert phone number here)

Trees continually evaporate moisture into the air.

Governess Agnes Moorehead sternly informs Virginia Weidner she and her friend, Jean Porter, cannot leave the house to meet Greer Garson on her arrival in New York in M-G-M's "The Youngest Profession." The disappointment is apparent, but the girls go anyhow. The picture, coming to the Fayette Theatre, is loaded with laughs as it follows the antics of a group of 'teen-age autograph seekers in their quest for signatures of famous stars at the Fayette, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

MILK PRICE BOOST DEMAND REFUSED

Government Subsidy Plan To Be Worked Out First

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(P) There will be no increase in farm milk prices in Ohio for at least three months and maybe not then, says Charles W. Holman of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation.

Reporting on a conference of milk producers' representatives Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and West Virginia with War Food Administration officials yesterday, Holman said he learned the government's subsidy program would have to be worked out before any increase would be considered.

Street Lighting Contract Renewed For Five Years

SAME RATES TO BE PAID DURING COMING PERIOD

Council Transacts Other Business at Regular Session

At the regular session of City Council, Wednesday night, council by unanimous vote adopted an ordinance providing for street lighting for the five year period starting October 1, and the agreement provides payment of the same rates as at present to the Dayton Power and Light Company.

F. E. Hill, superintendent of the Washington C. H. District of The Dayton Power and Light Company, presented the matter of renewing the contract, stating that the specifications were the same and that the prices proposed were the same as paid during the past five years.

The rates carried in the ordinance are as follows: for not less than 8 bridge lights of 100 candle power, $15 annually; 238 lights of 100 candle power, $21 each per annum; 29 aerial type lights, 250 candle power, $36 yearly and 27 boulevard lights, 400 candle power, $45 per year.

The lights are to burn on an "all night and every night" schedule. This is on a basis of lights burning from a half hour after sunset to a half hour before sunrise.

Council first adopted the schedule of specifications, and followed with passing the ordinance.

J. Roush Burton, cashier of the First National Bank, the city's depository, presented the proposal of changing the present method of depositing collateral security to guarantee city funds, to placing the collateral in the hands of a trustee as a means of saving time, trouble and money to both the city and the bank, and suggested the Ohio National Bank as the proposed trustee. He said the city schools and Jeffersonville schools were following this method.

The proposal was taken under advisement.

The report of S. A. Murry, police court justice, for the month of July, showed $1,202.30 collected in fines, fees and forfeited bonds. Of this amount $80 went into the county treasury, $85 into the state treasury, and $1,037.30 into the city treasury.

It was one of the largest monthly amounts collected in years.

Upon request of the Ohio State Council of Defense, a resolution was adopted authorizing interchange of fire fighting equipment during emergencies, in accordance with a state law enacted, and naming William S. Bucklew as state fire coordinator.

Under provision of the law if this city should be bombed or other calamity befall it where a conflagration is started, all other fire fighting equipment in the state is pledged to assist, and in case of a similar catastrophe in any other city, this city would send assistance.

9-ROOM HOUSE BURNS NEAR SOUTH SOLON

Bad Luck Continues To Grip Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henry

Fire destroyed the nine-room frame house of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henry three miles north of South Solon Wednesday. Although everything on the first floor of the house was saved, the fire had made too much headway before it was discovered for it to be controlled.

It is believed that the fire started from a spark in soot from the kitchen stove. The blaze started in the north corner of the attic it is thought and was discovered by Henry while he was out mowing weeds in his garden.

Mrs. F. E. Nelson, sister of Mrs. Henry, lost all her furniture and clothing which was stored on the second floor of the house. Both Mr. and Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Nelson were at home when the blaze started.

Insurance partly covers the loss of the house which burned to the ground as no fire fighting equipment was available at the country home.

Three years ago the Henry barn was destroyed when it was struck by lightning and early this spring Henry fell down the stairs in his home breaking his neck.

MORE WORKERS ARE NEEDED FOR FULL TIME JOBS

Employment Service Boss Here Hopes To Avoid Calling Outside-county Help

One hundred twenty-five more workers are needed at the Fayette Canning Company, operating on the corn and tomato packs since Tuesday. More workers are also needed at the Ladoga plant which began packing Thursday, although the need there is not as sharp at present as at the Fayette company, said Ward C. Miller, manager of the United States Employment Service, today.

He pointed out that many of those who applied for work at both companies were told that there was no place for them at present. He explained the statement did not mean that there would be no work at all, and for the applicants to return in two or three days, as they would "be pretty certain of having jobs" at that time.

"The number of workers needed by each plant increases day by day until the peak is reached, when the companies will be operating at capacity," Miller continued. The peak will last for two or three weeks, when the demand for workers will gradually decrease, although both canning plants will probably run right into lima bean and pumpkin packing when the corn and tomato run is over. Ladoga packs lima beans while the Fayette company takes care of the pumpkin.

"I'd like to see more full time workers apply," Miller said. He explained, though, that part time workers would be welcomed as there were "plenty of jobs" for them during the peak, such as working sorting belts and stamping cans.

"I've still got my fingers crossed so I won't have to ask for clearance orders to get help from neighboring counties," Miller declared. "I believe this is our biggest crisis right now. If we can do this job 100 percent, we can go right on in to Berlin if it's left to Fayette Countians."

COUNTY'S QUOTA IS $1,018,000 IN WAR LOAN DRIVE

Last Campaign Here Went 'Over the Top' With Its $750,000 Obligation

Fayette County's quota for the $15,000,000 national War Bond drive which starts September 9 is $1,018,000, an increase of 30 per cent over April's quota of $750,000 according to F. E. Hill, Fayette County Finance Committee chairman. All of the quota must be obtained from non-banking sources.

Although the April quota was $750,000 the sales in the end totaled $1,114,000 but only $704,075 of this was from non-banking sources. Hill pointed out. The total for the Third Federal Reserve District of Ohio, which encompasses 22 counties, is $177,355,000.

The drive here will be conducted in much the same way as previous drives, Hill said. Organization of the War Finance Committee here follows the state pattern in every respect except two, since there is no need for negro activities or foreign origin groups divisions. Publicity, special events, promotion, agricultural and rural, school activities, women's activities retailers and theater operators divisions are all maintained here.

Bonds to be sold in the September drive are War Bonds of series E, and Savings Bonds of series F and G, Treasury Savings Notes of series C, as well as two and one-half and two per cent Treasury Bonds of 1964-69 and 1951-53 issues.

PICKAWAY FARMERS RECEIVE $100,000

Pickaway County farmers numbering over 400 will receive approximately $100,000 in wheat insurance from the government, as result of the widespread blight which reduced the crop by tens of thousands of bushels in the county.

Last year's insurance was paid on only 3,400 bushels of wheat.

Activities retailers and theater operators divisions are all maintained here.

Bonds to be sold in the September drive are War Bonds of series E, and Savings Bonds of series F and G, Treasury Savings Notes of series C, as well as two and one-half and two per cent Treasury Bonds of 1964-69 and 1951-53 issues.
